Beautifully lined Bekebrede Kotter built with a round bilged hull and flared bow. On the aft deck there is a round seating with good matching cushions, a table and enough space for a few extra chairs. An L-shaped bench is situated around the steering position so that the captain can sail in company. The entire steering position is covered and there is also a second tent available. The Raymarine equipment is up to date with a 12 inch plotter screen, autopilot, radar, AIS and a wind meter. The bow and stern thruster can also be operated with a remote control. The walk around on deck feels safe with a high and solid stainless steel railing. The flat saloon roof offers space for future solar panels. Upon entering the saloon there are two large comfortable saloon benches. The galley and the U-shaped dinette seat are openly connected to each other. Both the fore and aft cabin have their own toilet. In the owner's cabin in the aft ship you have a comfortable double French bed at your disposal, the aft cabin also has its own shower cabin. The engine room has its own entrance, the floor hatches in the saloon also provide extra space for carrying out maintenance work.
